What is Mozilla?

Mozilla is a global community working to protect the Internet as a public resource, open and accessible to all.

Together, Mozilla staff and thousands of volunteers build products (we're best known for the Firefox Web browser), organize communities, teach digital literacy skills, and mobilize citizens around the world to stand up for the Web and its users.

Working open is one of our core values. This means working in public online spaces like Github, shared Google docs, community calls and etherpads to encourage a culture that is both public and participatory. We strive to create ways for 'outsiders' to become 'insiders'.

Mozilla's heart is its community of makers, coders, designers, educators and activists. Join us!
